housing facility at Montevideo, Uruguay. Talking to FE, EPCH executive director Rakesh Kumar said: "The warehouse will help facilitate export of handicrafts items in the region by developing the concept of availability of ready stock and encouraging spot orders. As Montevideo has the free port in the South American region, the warehouse facility has very high relevance for the Indian exporters."

The port of Montevideo is located on river plate and is geographically positioned as the main cargo transport route of Mercosur (the Southern Common Market). Mercosur is composed of six sovereign member states: Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Paraguay, Uruguay and Venezuela. Mercosur offers a huge market for the exporters challenges in the way of accelerating bilateral trade and investment flows through deeper bilateral cooperation, challenges can be turned into partnership opportunities.

Keeping in view of the increasing complexities in the global economic environment, Novoa underscored the need for India and LAC to enhance inter-dependence, especially in areas like food security, services, etc. He also referred to Uruguay being the gateway to the LAC markets by virtue of the country's geographical location, modern port facilities and free trade policy. Uruguay, whose economy is growing at 5%, has been ranked as the second most attractive investment destination in the LAC region. The trade minister of Uruguay also stated that India and Uruguay have an FTA.
